Business Administration

BADM-4200  Management and Labor in 21st Century
Students will analyze the principles and practices of leadership, management and labor relations in the context of 21st century businesses and other organizations. In this course students will consider the fundamental question of how to lead organizations and manage people in ways that make good business sense and also benefit their employees and society as a whole.

Textbook: Contemporary Management • 8TH 13 ISBN 13: 978-0-07-802953-0
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4210  Business Ethics and Sustainability
Using a values-based curriculum, students will grapple with a series of case studies, drawn from a variety of work contexts, which challenge them to operate and manage a business in an ethical and sustainable manner.

Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4220  Financial and Accounting Controls
Students will develop the skills and knowledge necessary to understand and manage the financial and accounting functions critical to the successful operation of a business. Particular attention will be paid to key concepts and practices related to finance, and an understanding of critical accounting practices, such as the interrelationship between cash flow, income statements, and balance sheets.

Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4215  The Legal Environment of Business
This course provides an overview of a set of laws that impact on the organization of a business, including the functions of agency, partnership and key elements of corporation law. In addition, it provides an introduction to legal areas related to the day-to-day management of an organization, including the basics of business contracts, and employment and labor relations law.

Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4230  Entrepreneurship
Students will examine a variety of materials, including case studies, which explore the challenges of starting and managing a new venture or revitalizing an existing operation. These challenges include the analysis of risks and rewards, the issue of financing and consideration of the skills and resources required to run a successful, values-based business or organization.

Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4700  Marketing and New Media
The course will begin with a brief overview of the traditional approaches to marketing and creating value. Students will then move to an analysis of marketing and communications in the 21st century, including an examination of the challenges and opportunities presented by new media, social networking tools and shifting political and economic environments. In this course students will evaluate the use of interviews, surveys and data analysis in business decision making.
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

BADM-4900  Capstone Project
Students will complete an integrative project that applies the knowledge and skills they have gained in their major to an actual case or situation. The scope and nature of the project will be determined with individual faculty.
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

NLCC-4200  Labor and Work in the United States
This course is designed to provide students with an advanced understanding of issues related to what unions do (with a specific focus on the rights and responsibilities of union members, organizing, and bargaining), labor-management relations (including conflict resolution, labor law and contract administration), the structure of the contemporary labor movement and labor's contributions to American society. Students will explore issues in political economy, globalization and the lingering economic crisis, and the course will conclude with an overview of comparative labor relations. Students in this course will become familiar with the required writing and analytical standards of the College. [7-week format] Required for all major programs in SLS and SPS
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

NLCC-4500  Labor and Work in the Global Economy
This course offers students an overview of comparative industrial relations systems and practices within the context of a globalized economy. In addition to looking at broader debates surrounding globalization and change, this course will explore the employment relationship from a comparative perspective, including but not limited to Canada, the U.S., Great Britain, Germany, France, and China. [7-week format] Required for all major programs in SLS and SPS
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online

NLCC-4000  Digital Learning for the 21st Century
Technological development has resulted in widespread change in the way people acquire information. Every college and university in the world now relies on digital systems to a greater or lesser extent; both at home and at work, we routinely rely on the use of internet technology, multi-media and computer applications. The course provides students the necessary technological and critical thinking skills that are integral to learning in the 21st century. In addition to examining principles of adult and digital learning, students will explore a range of online research techniques. Project-based work in this course will include writing and editing upper level academic work, becoming familiar with and utilizing a range of online research techniques. Required for students in SPS majors; elective for SLS. [Formerly DGTL-4000; a student may not receive credit for both]
Instructor: NLC Staff
Format: 7 Weeks Online
